6 Trains

Introduction

There is an extensive local rail network within the Network West Midlands area. London Midland operates the majority of local train services, with links to long distance services at main line stations.

Stations and trains are becoming more accessible. We are continuing to work with our partners at Network Rail and London Midland to improve station accessibility. New automatic audio announcement systems and electronic information screens have now been installed at all stations in the Network West Midlands area, which provide audible and visual information about the next train to arrive at the station.

This section advises you of some of the facilities that are available at each station, and on the trains. The Network West Midlands Rail Network Map is at the rear of this guide.

Advance booking and assistance

The accessibility of rail stations varies; it is recommended that you should always try to plan your journey so that you use stations best equipped and staffed to meet your needs. If you think you may need assistance at the station or on the train, please let the train operators know you are travelling. They are more than happy to assist disabled people, but require at least one working day advance notice to ensure their staff are available when needed.

If you need extra assistance to help you make your journey, contact National Rail Enquiries 03457 48 49 50 (Textphone 0345 60 50 600) or call into the Customer Reception or Travel Centre at Birmingham New Street Station.

Alternatively for travel assistance for London Midland local services:
Telephone: 0800 092 4260
Textphone: 0344 811 0134
Fax: 0845 051 8359
Email: londonmidland@maileu.custhelp.com
Website: www.londonmidland.com for more details

To provide the best possible service, you can assist the station staff by providing the following information:

- The date you will travel and the time your train will leave;
- The destination station and any stations where you need to change trains;
- Exactly what assistance is required;
- How you will travel to and from your departure and arrival stations, for example taxi or private car, and whether someone is meeting you at your destination;
- Whether you will be travelling alone or with someone;
- Whether you will need a wheelchair at your departure and arrival stations;
- Any other relevant information you want to give.

Please provide similar details for your return journey if possible, especially if returning the same day. Please try to give at least one working days notice of your journey. If you do not give notice, the normal level of service cannot be guaranteed. Please also note that buses may replace trains due to planned engineering works, especially during weekends and public holidays. If assistance is booked, then London Midland asks that you arrive at the station 20 minutes prior to the scheduled departure time.

Where stations are not accessible for a particular journey and no suitable alternative station exists, London Midland will provide a taxi (to suit your accessibility needs) to the nearest accessible station for your journey, at no additional cost. We recommend that you provide as much notice as possible to avoid having to wait for suitable alternative transport.

If you are buying tickets online, please note that you will be able to book travel assistance during this process.

Rail station facilities in the Network West Midlands area

The majority of rail stations in the Network West Midlands area enable access from outside the station to the platform, via level access, ramps, or passenger lift. Stations with booking offices have staff available whenever trains are operating, from first train until last. However, some smaller stations are unstaffed. Help Points are located at all station platforms in the Network West Midlands area. Blue Badge disabled parking spaces are provided at all Park and Ride sites and we have recently carried out improvements to the accessibility of all our Park and Ride sites by installing more dropped kerbs, tactile surfaces, and colour contrasting finishes to step edges and bollards. Many stations are well served by local bus services.

The following is a guide to some of the facilities available at stations within the Network West Midlands area, together with information on how to access the platforms. It shows, for example, how many steps there are on a footbridge, or if a ramp or lift is available. Please note that older ticket machines on some platforms may not be accessible to wheelchair users. For further information, telephone Traveline 0871 200 22 33.

Station access information is also available on the National Rail website. Go to http://nrekb.nationalrail.co.uk/stations_destination and enter the name of the station.

Information on routes through stations is available on National Rail Enquiries website using the 'Stations Made Easy' feature. For each station you can find out what routes are available according to your access requirements, for example, step free.
